

Tau Beta Pi
The Engineering Honor Society

RSVP Required!

A Majors Welcome!

Engineering Futures

A Professional Leadership Workshop on Communication.

First Impressions and Communicating Problems and Complexity.

For accommodations, please contact Hunter Elwell at elwellh@oregonstate.edu

March 1st from 10:00 a.m. – 1:00 p.m.
Bexell Hall 328

Who is Tau Beta Pi?

- International Engineering Honor Society!
 - (not a frat)
- Founded 1885
- OR A Chapter chartered 1924

What do we do?

- Recognize excellence in academics and integrity
- Provide benefits and services to members and the community

Notable alumni

Jeff Bezos (That guy)

Mark Rober (Youtuber)

Linus Pauling (The Building)

Bent monument, Monroe Entrance to Rogers Hall

What is Engineering Futures?

- A professional development program offered by Tau Beta Pi
- Curriculum built from National Science Foundation (NSF) grant (Award #1730137)

CyberAmbassadors

Why do it?

- Practice and experience developing the soft skills employers look for
- New Connections
- Complete a recognized certificate that shows employers your commitment
- Free food!

EF: Communication

3 Modules:

1. First Contact: Communicating with Purpose

How to make good first impressions

2. Let's Talk: Communicating about Problems

Explore common types of problems in the Engineering workplace

3. It's Complicated: Communicating about Complexity

How to talk about technical and complex problems with non-experts.

Abraham Atte

- B.S. in Aerospace Engineering
- PhD student in GIT
- Focus on multirotor aerodynamics

Thank you!

RSVP Required!

We hope to see you there!

March 1st from 10am - 1pm

Bexell Hall 328

RSVP Required

